

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Where Do They Go?

Washington, June 8.—IT IS interesting to speculate on just how much political damage can be inflicted upon Mr. Truman by the wave of criticism and disparagement with which he is now being deluged from what is known as the "extreme left."

THOUGH varied in form and not counting Republicans, the attack mostly comes from elements of the same political hue—pink to red. The attackers range all the way from the "intellectuals," who go about patronizingly murmuring "poor little man" to the loud-voiced labor leaders who denounce the president as a "traitor" and the cheap senatorial publicity seekers who refer to him as a "ham actor" and "hypocrite." All of this is due to the courage with which he finally acted to prevent a railroad strike and his proposal of the draft as a means of preventing future strikes against the Government—a step which Mr. Roosevelt had urged on three separate occasions. Though it never hurt Mr. Roosevelt, the claim is that Mr. Truman has thus lost both the labor and the liberal vote. On the surface, and in so far as the professionals under both heads can control, this would seem to be true—at least partially. But, really to assay the political cost to Mr. Truman, several things must be considered.

ONE is that the "labor vote" and the "liberal vote" to a large extent are identical. Every CIO leader, big and little, calls himself a liberal. And nearly all the conspicuous "liberals," one way or another, are linked with the CIO and its PAC, or with the Communist-dominated American Labor party, or one or the other of the new "liberal" committees that have recently sprung up. They are somewhat ridiculously interlocked. Another is that the noise which these groups make is wholly out of proportion to their numerical strength. They are more elaborately and expensively equipped for publicity purposes than all other agencies in the country. Four fifths of their energy and money is expended for publicity.

A THIRD thing to consider is that while it seems true that the Democratic party cannot carry New York without the support of the American Labor party and the Liberal party (formed by members who resented the conservative Democrats which the Communists took over the ALP) it is by no means true that the solid support of these two parties insure victory in New York. For example, in 1944, together they carried 697,000 votes for Mr. Roosevelt, but Mr. Roosevelt only carried the State by 317,000. Few persons will contend that despite the solidity of the ALP-Liberal support in New York and elsewhere Mr. Roosevelt would have won in 1944 had it not been for the war and the fear of many conservative Democrats and Republicans that a change in the presidency might be disastrous.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The nine-day anthracite coal strike ended with an agreement giving the 75,000 strikers benefits similar to those won by the soft coal miners, including an 18½-cent-an-hour wage increase and a health and welfare fund. Two of the three trustees of the fund, which will be based on a deduction of 5 cents a ton, or more than $2,500,000 annually, will be named by John L. Lewis and one will be selected by the operators.

COMMUNISTS AT WORK

Once again the American people have available to their inspection the facts in an instance where it appears to be unmistakable that Communist-sympathizers in the State Department have "blitzed" a program initiated by President Truman and Secretary Byrnes.

Revelation of the case comes from a most astonishing source, and one whose accuracy can hardly be challenged—the address of British Foreign Secretary Bevin.

The British Secretary makes no charges; he confined himself to stating facts.

But the facts he outlined appear to prove almost beyond challenge that the American plan for a disarmament treaty with post-war Germany was knifed by pro-Communists holding the inside track at Washington.

Because signals appear to have been deliberately crossed, Bevin arrived in Paris unaware that the German treaty was to be discussed, and having made no attempt to consult his own government in the matter.

Russia, on the other hand, apparently had been tipped off to what Secretary Byrnes planned to do, and was set to "smear" the proposals the moment they were made.

The British government, once it learned of the plan, "warmly supported" it. Both England and America believe it to be the most workable suggestion yet advanced. Yet Russia, who hopes to profit through confusion, has been able not only to block the plan but to so contaminate and misrepresent it that it may never be given a fair hearing.

It has been charged many times before that agents and saboteurs working under orders from Moscow have been active in our State Department and that their main function appears to be to "knock down" any constructive

TRIP TO NEW YORK

HULMEVILLE, June 8.—Miss Selena Anna Manley, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Raymond E. VanArtsdalen, Bellevue avenue, became the bride of a resident of Chester this morning, when at a ceremony at 10 o'clock in Our Lady of Grace R. C. Church, South Langhorne, she took the vows which made her the wife of Mr. Lawrence E. Vail, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Vail, of Chester. The Rev. Fr. The bodice of the white bridal gown was of ribbed taffeta, and the full net skirt swept to a graceful train. The sleeves were tapered over her hands, and the ruffled, square neckline effect outlined a net yoke. The bride wore white slippers, and a beaded tiara to which a finger-tip veil of net was attached. She carried a white prayer book, topped by a white orchid from which cascaded stephanotis and baby breath.

Miss Vail, the maid of honor, was costumed in pale pink, the bodice being of silk jersey, and the floor-length skirt of net. The gown had a yoke of embroidered eyelet, and sleeves were short. Miss Roper wore yellow and Miss Vitale orchid. Serving as organist for the ceremony was Miss Rita Keating, South Langhorne, she playing the bridal marches and accompanying Mrs. William Di Nunzio, of Bristol, the vocalist.

SEVERE LECTURE IS GIVEN 2 YOUNG MEN

Judge Reprimands Them For "Hoodlum Practices;" Must Pay the Costs

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

DOYLESTOWN, June 8.—"Hoodlum practices" spelled for two young men hauled into court here, a severe lecture from President Judge Hiram H. Keller, this week.

Judge Keller, asserting that he will make an example of the two, and that the court is determined to protect shrubs, flowers and other out-of-doors possessions of Bucks Countians, gave suspended prison sentences to a Coast Guardsman and another young man. The two had pleaded guilty to stealing antique signs as part of a prankster's trick. They were charged with malicious mischief. William Calahan, 22, Oxford Valley, and Howard Billbee, 22, of Morrisville, were given a prison sentence of six months, which was suspended on condition that they pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $50 and restore the value of the signs they stole. They were placed on probation for two years.

Billbee, who served in the Coast Guard 43 months, rather irked the court when he told Judge Keller he didn't think their crime was serious enough to have their parents in court or call "character" witnesses.

"Your crimes are very serious," said Judge Keller. "For too many years Bucks county people have been putting up with strangers coming into their gardens and on their properties and carrying away flowers, shrubbery, in fact, anything they would like to take."

Trooper John P. Mitchell, of the Doylestown sub-station of the Pennsylvania State Police, who arrested the two defendants, said two of the signs have been returned, one being an antique horse sign. Two of the signs are still missing. Billbee testified he visited one of the places from whom the sign was taken, and offered to have a sign replaced.

"We thought it would be a good joke to put antique signs on a car because we heard the owner bragging about his 1926 model," said Billbee.

SAUCE FOR THE GOSLINGS

It was inevitable that boys of school age should revolt against current feminine styles, and, that being true, a story from Decatur, Indiana, is not particularly surprising. It seems that more than 100 of the boys, weary of seeing the traditional garments of their sex being worn by girls, paraded the streets while wearing dresses. The only disturbing note in this masculine demonstration is the announcement that school authorities whipped two of the boys who were said to have gone to extremes.

Apparently the gad can still be applied in Hoosier schools when a teacher thinks it will accomplish beneficial results, whatever one may think of its use in this instance. Perhaps one of the old maids on the force thought its use was called for.

Girls of school age in Indiana, and elsewhere throughout the nation, are devoted at the moment to blue jeans pants and shirts with the tails outside. They roll up their trouser legs as if they were traversing muddy fields, and flop along in flat-soled shoes that pediatricists say will make their feet twice as large by the time they reach mature age.

Legally, there is no restraint upon this type of attire. Economically, it may have some bearing on existing conditions, since farmers and others who need overalls and work shirts complain that the available supply is being bought quickly by maidens who want to look queer. For the boys of Decatur to attire themselves in girlish garb does not presage the beginning of another trend.

It was purely a protest to be classed as sauce for the goslings. The community now is back to normal and the girls, as they have done since time immemorial, are continuing to wear whatever suits their fancy.

FEDERAL JURY PANELS

In a decision handed down a few days ago the Supreme Court has ruled that a case must be tried because all persons who work for a daily wage were excluded from the panel from which the jury was drawn. With this ruling a minority of the justices issued a sharp dissent and it is easy to understand their misgivings.

It is unquestionably true, as the majority of the court contends, that a man paid on a daily basis is no less competent to serve on a federal jury than one paid by the week or month. He should not be denied the opportunity to serve. But, as a practical matter, jury duty involves a heavy financial sacrifice as a rule to the man paid by the day. Few are willing to serve and the courts have been lenient in excusing them.

This will probably continue to be true even though day laborers are placed on jury panels, as a result of the court's decision, in places where they are now automatically left off the lists. But what disturbs the minority of the court is the prospect that this ruling may lead to case after case being opened to retrial because one group or another has not been included in the jury list.

COMMUNISTS AT WORK

work which the national heads attempt to do in fields where Russia wants her own undisputed word.

It has been charged, for example, by persons high in the government that national policy in China was really being run by unknown Communists on our public payroll. The ambiguous attitude of the State Department to Spain and Argentina was traced to the same source. Someone in the State Department has succeeded in "selling" President Truman, Secretary Byrnes and General MacArthur a Communist constitution for post-war Japan—cleverly disguised under catch-phrases from our own Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

Both President Truman and Secretary Byrnes appear to be frightened over the repercussions if they attempt to root the pro-Communists out of the State Department. Clearly, the job, if done at all, must be the work of the National Congress.

In this instance, Congress has the outline of a series of circumstances which appear fully to justify a careful search to trace the identity and guilt of the fifth-columnists.

Bevin's own words on the transaction repay careful study. Said he:

"We were more than agreeably surprised to receive from the United States a draft treaty for twenty-five years to ensure that Germany remained disarmed at the end of a period of occupation. It was, however, marked 'VERY SECRET', and it was enjoined upon me NOT TO ALLOW IT TO LEAK. Accordingly it was discussed only in a VERY LIMITED Government circle.

"I WAS UNAWARE THAT THE UNITED STATES WAS GOING TO BRING THIS OUT AT THE PARIS CONFERENCE, or I would have got myself into a position to be authorized to give it more support in the initial stage. Immediately it was released, however, I communicated with the Cabinet and LATER was able to announce to the conference that we warmly supported it.

"It was, therefore, a matter of profound regret to witness the way it was RECEIVED BY THE SOVIET REPRESENTATIVES. INFERRENCES AND CHARGES ABOUT PRESENT DISARMAMENT ARRANGEMENTS WERE MADE TO COUNTER MR. BYRNES' PROPOSAL.

There are only two possible conjectures to be made concerning the American State Department's part in this fiasco.

Either our diplomacy is in the hands of butter-fingered gentlemen who have no idea of what they are doing . . .

Or pro-Communists in the State Department deliberately pulled the strings to make it possible for Russia to "smear" the Byrnes program at the outset, with Bevin helpless to help because he had been skillfully headed off from consulting his own government in the matter.

Bevin talks English, in more senses than one, and he knew the implications of the story he laid before the House of Commons as well as the next one.

Nothing elsewhere in his speech indicates that he believes America's diplomats to be stupid enough to tie his hands in such a fashion, at the moment when his support was most needed.

How much he may know about the extent to which Stalin may be using his agents in our State Department to block British foreign policy is another matter.

But someone in authority in the United States government ought to get at the bottom of the transaction.

Congress, which has its own representatives in the United Nations, has a job cut out for it.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, June 8—(INS)—Newspaper correspondents covering Capitol Hill have received from Gov. Edward Martin copies of a new book entitled "My Pennsylvania" which will be presented to college, school and public libraries in the commonwealth. The book, a brief history of the State's 67 counties, was the brainchild of the chief executive who for years has carried a notebook containing detailed information about the various counties. . . . He compiled the information so that he might have readily available data concerning county histories, shrines, populations, industries, land areas, road mileages and value of products.

The book's cover utilizes the commonwealth's colors and has a blue binding with a gold liberty bell imprinted on the front side. . . . Approximately 25,000 copies were included in the first edition which recently came off the presses. . . . Photographic reproductions illustrate the texts. . . . Each county has two pages devoted to its history with the exception of Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties whose histories were told in four pages. . . . No political information has been included in the books.

The Pennsylvania Motor Federation has pointed out that President Truman has endorsed the American Automobile Association's "Take It Easy" campaign designed to reduce the number of traffic fatalities. . . . The safety drive began May 13.

The commonwealth has become $1 richer through the contribution of an unidentified York Countyman who mailed the money to the Department of Internal Affairs.

The Department reported that the $1 was enclosed in a circular entitled "The Lord is Coming" and a note stated the sender had tendered the money in payment for "some white stones and ground" taken from state-owned land.

The Department of Forests and Waters has reported that during the past 39 years more than 279,000,000 forest tree seedlings and transplants have been grown at four commonwealth nurseries. . . . The Department added that more than 69,000,000 of the trees were planted in State forests, 163,000,000 distributed to private land owners and 17,000,000 allocated to State Departments and the Federal Government for planting in Pennsylvania.

At the central entrance to the main capitol building in Harrisburg are two huge bronze doors enriched with sculptured reliefs. . . . On the sides of the doors, a succession of sculptured heads portray the men immediately responsible for the construction of the capitol more than 40 years ago.

Surely Planned for Gracious Living is this charming home, one of the many illustrations in the Dunham-Thalberg book on "Planning Your Home For Better Living." The many windows call up visions of sunny rooms; the big chimneys suggest friendly fireplaces.

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL

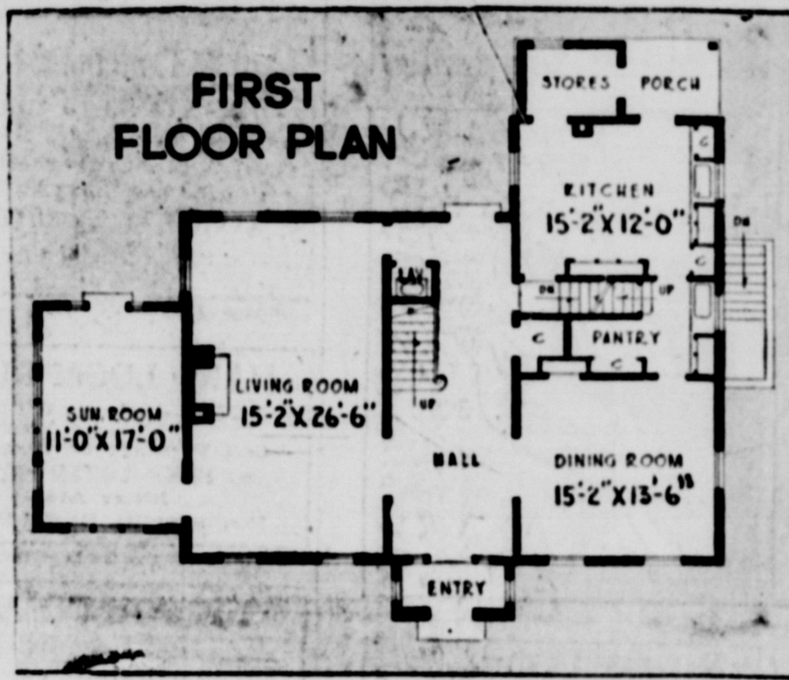

Whether that new home of yours, which you're going to have as soon as building conditions make it possible, is to be large or small, traditional in its architecture or ultra-modern, you're going to want it planned for gracious living.

And to accomplish that purpose, to plan the arrangements so that they fit the requirements of your particular family happily will take considerable thought on your part. Unless you're already well posted on the line points to be kept in mind when buying a site, deciding on the kind of architecture you want, estimating costs, choosing building materials and so forth, you'd be smart to acquire a certain amount of background information on such things while waiting for the time you can begin building.

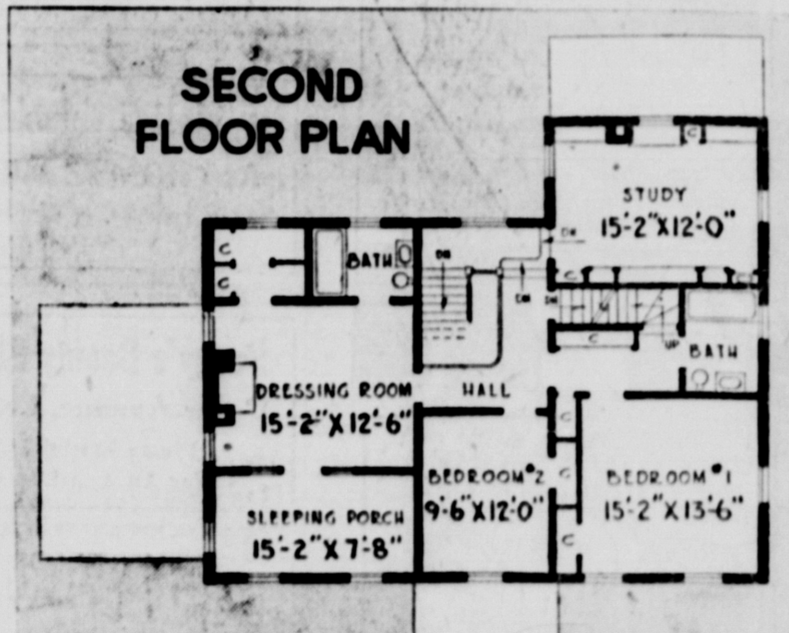

A book that offers comprehensive coverage of the fundamentals of home building in layman's language is "Planning Your Home for Better Living" by Clarence W. Dunham and Milton D. Thalberg.

Dedicating their work in friendly fashion "to those who look forward to the day when they can own their own home," the authors have prepared a handy guidebook to steer the prospective home owner through the tricky business of turning castles in the air into houses of wood or stone. They tell you how legal and business details involved in home building are adjusted; discuss methods of financing your dreams; explain such mystic matters as architectural drawings and structural details; acquaint you with what is to be expected of your architect, your builder, and the others who will have a hand in the construction of your house, so that you can follow along intelligently with them as the work proceeds. And they devote separate chapters to individual rooms—living room, kitchen, bedrooms, etc.—so that every detail important to their planning shall receive adequate attention.

The book is, of course, fully illustrated with pictures of houses, diagrams, floor plans, charts and sketches that make every point easy to understand.

Ample Room For The family to spread itself has been provided in the ground floor plan of this house, with its large living and sun rooms.

While The Second Floor plan shows a dressing room and study, these two rooms could be used as bedrooms, making five bedrooms in all.

Informal Flower Show Is Judged by Mrs. C. Watson

One other display was a vase containing four pink poppies, with rearing maple leaves showing above, and balanced on the far side by the green of Solomon's Seal. The other two included a variety of garden flowers in a large container suitable for a sideboard; and a display of yellow and orange blossoms for a dark corner.

Mrs. Watson reminded that flower arrangement ideas have been handed down by various races, the pastel tones not being introduced until the arrival of the French in this country. She spoke of the Victorian period with its heavy arrangements in bulbous vases; adding that Americans have learned much about flower arrangements from the Japanese. "By taking the best of all the groups we now have an American form of arrangement," mentioning the pleasure to be secured from flower arrangement, the guest urged individuals to try new ideas even with meagre amounts of material to work with. "Your ideas are as good as anybody's, but in entering shows you must then keep to the prescribed form." In speaking of the forthcoming fall show she mentioned that most call for potted plants to be used in the house during the winter.

After selecting place winners in the four classes of the day, Mrs. Watson commented upon various entries, and offered suggestions at the request of the committee in charge.

Mrs. Tomb also called upon Mrs. Leon W. Hutton to tell about the "Penn's Woods" project at Washington Crossing State Park, this being started in October, 1944. Fifteen acres are being carved out of the Wild Flower Preserve at the park for planting of tribute or memorial trees. Mrs. Hutton informed that already over 100 such plantings have been made, with Mrs. C. C. Zantinger serving as chairman. Numbers on the trees correspond with numbers listed at the Thompson-Neeley house in the park, where information is given as to donor, person honored, etc.

A brief business meeting was held first, with Mrs. David Sheerer presiding. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Carl Foell. The president asked members to present during the next few weeks suggestions for programs for next season. She also requested that any individuals having pieces of wool or cotton material to donate, in lengths of 1/2 yard or more, to turn same over to the Peace Committee of the club by June 15th, for shipment to Greece to aid in rehabilitation of children.

We're proud of the big things our little want ads do.

Claims Damages For Stolen Trees, Shrubs

DOYLESTOWN, June 8.—Claiming damages amounting to $672, treble the value because trees are involved, Florence E. Uetzel, New Britain township, has named John Tully, Peter Tully and Jacques Merrill, of Salford township, Montgomery county, defendants in an action in trespass filed in the Court of Common Pleas here.

The trio of defendants, according to a statement of claim in the Prothonotary's Office, here, are alleged to have removed from the premises owned by the plaintiff 13 feet of a three-foot wide bed of dogwood trees, two weeping willows, two large dogwoods and 23 Lombardy Poplar trees.

The plaintiff alleges that on April 21 and April 24 the trees, shrubs and nursery stock was cut down and removed to premises owned by the defendant. She places the market value at $224.

Because of an Act of Assembly, Jan. 24, 1939, the value may be trebled and therefore the New Britain woman claims the sum of $672.

Following a decision by Justice of the Peace William Wrigley May 18, when he rendered a verdict of $237.52 in favor of the plaintiff, Anna S. Hulsizer, Erwinna, and against Raymond E. Sanders, New Hope Star Route, an appeal has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas here by the defendant.

According to the transcript, John Sispara was operating a car for Anna S. Hulsizer, the plaintiff, on the River Road, July 16, 1945, when the car and another car driven by the defendant figured in a "squeeze play." Following the collision, repairs made to plaintiff's car came to $237.52. The defendant, Sanders, did not appear at a hearing held at the office of Justice Wrigley April 29 and judgment was given in favor of Anna S. Hulsizer, the plaintiff.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller has set June 19, as a date for a hearing to hear a petition for compromise for $1200. The plaintiffs are Claud I. Funk and Jeanette F. Funk and their daughter, Vera A. Funk, 17, Perkaskie, RD 1, and the defendant is Susan E. Effrig, Perkaskie. The minor plaintiff was injured in an automobile accident December 5, 1945, on Route 313 and Ridge Road, Alvin K. Effrig was operating the defendant's car.

Miss Helen M. Appleton And Frank L. Jenks Wed

This morning at 11 o'clock in Bristol Methodist Church, an early summer wedding was solemnized, when Miss Helen M. Appleton, of Swain street, became the bride of Mr. Frank L. Jenks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Jenks, Jefferson avenue.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. W. E. Preston Haas, with baskets of cut flowers forming the altar decorations.

The church organist, Miss Winifred V. Tracy, rendered selections and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, New Buckley St., who sang "I Love You Truly," and Mr. Howard Smoyer, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Howard Smoyer who attended the bride, was attired in a street length crepe dress of melon tone, featuring shoulder sleeves. She wore long white gloves, white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. C. Russell Lorimer, Andalusia, cousin of the groom, was his attendant.

The bride was attired in a two-piece powder blue dress, the bodice being of embroidered net. It featured shoulder sleeves, and the skirt was of rayon crepe. She wore a large white hat, long white gloves, white slippers and a corsage of gardenias.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church with dinner served to the immediate families. Covers were placed for 48.

A week's honeymoon will be spent at Wildwood, N. J. Mrs. Jenks travelling in a dark blue dress, blue coat and white accessories. Upon their return they will reside with the groom's parents on Jefferson avenue.

Mrs. Jenks is employed by Fleetwings, Division of Kaiser Cargo, Inc., and Mr. Jenks is employed by Rohm & Haas Co.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Father above we thank Thee for the exaltation of Thy Son and our saviour the Lord Jesus Christ. We thank Thee for the gift of the Holy Spirit. We bless Thee for Him—the third person in the Holy Trinity. As He takes the finished work of our atoning Lord and applies it, to our receptive and believing hearts may we rejoice and give Thee thanks that now, in this age of the Spirit and of the Church, that "WHOSOEVER calleth upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." May we never be guilty of the unpardonable sin of grieving the Holy Spirit of God. May we listen to Him as He would speak to us of a continuing citizenship in a country whose author and builder is God. "Spirit of God descend upon my heart," this day, I pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

SAMSEL'S HOOKS PROVE TOO MUCH FOR ST. ANN'S NINE

Badenhausen Wins Over Bristol Nine by Score of 9 to 1

1ST DEFEAT OF SEASON

Barbetta's Home-Run Was The Only Score Made By St. Ann's

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 8.—"Benny" Samsel's hooks sent the St. Ann's A. A. team to its first defeat of the season last evening on the Bensalem school field. Final score was 9-1.

The only marker scored off Samsel was a home run from the bat of "Bert" Barbetta in the sixth inning. Barbetta's hit was a high fly to right which "Frankie" Balaz got under but as the ball was coming down it struck a branch on the tree and came down, striking Balaz on the nose. Before the ball was retrieved by another player, Barbetta circled the bases.

Samsel gave the "Saints" only five hits and whiffed nine batters. "Charlie" Whyne, ace right-hander of the losers, was battered from the peak in the second inning. "Reds" Rotundo relieved him. But Whyne and Rotundo had trouble in trying to retire "Jack" Hansen who connected for a single, triple, and home run.

SMOKEY TAKES OFF

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—When firemen of Engine Co. 2 returned from a run they found Smokey, their Boston bull mascot, plenty mad at being left behind. When the truck whipped around a corner, Smokey, perched on the rear end, sailed through the air with the greatest of ease and landed on his feet under a bus. A bystander rescued him.
